

MAUREEN LOVE

Maureen Love is a Northwest photographer and harpist living in Lake Oswego, Oregon. Her photography, as well as her music, were encouraged and developed in her childhood. She is now recognized as an award-winning photographer and as one of the Northwest's finest harpists.

Maureen's love of photography was inspired by her father who did his own photography in the basement of their Los Angeles home. Maureen would assist him on occasion and delighted in watching the images appear in the developer. It seemed like pure magic and the excitement of those early experiences has never subsided. She now does her own developing.

Among Maureen's favorite subject matters are the windows and doors of Europe and Mexico, as well as flower fields as they burst forth with color. She can also be seen on occasion playing her harp in the tulip and iris fields of Oregon.

Her photographs can be seen in galleries, offices and private homes across the nation.
